Those in other areas who need help should consult the 2-in-2-1 Directory by clicking the link at the bottom of the page.

Important - If you are seeking marriage counselling, we suggest you should ask whichever organisation you contact the three simple questions below.

1. Are your marriage counsellors married, or widowed?
2. Will the counsellor's primary aim be to help us restore our marriage, if that is possible?
3. What proportion, roughly, of couples with whom your organisation works, succeed in restoring their marriage?

If you are not satisfied with the answers you receive, try another counselling organisation.

If you cannot find a counsellor near you from the 2-in-2-1 Directory, consult the Association of Christian Counsellors' website www.acc-uk.org . On that website look for those who offer counselling for marriage, couples or relationships.

Another alternative is to approach your local branch of Catholic Marriage Care, which should be found under the heading Marriage Care in your local phone directory. They offer counselling to Catholics and to non-Catholics.
